Insult Us, But Leave
Our Grits Alone
Not for the South

Here are a couple of choice editorials from other papers:
INSULT US IF YOU WILL BUT LEAVE OUR GRITS ALONE
(The Atlanta Journal)

An old hand at needing the Louisville Courier-Journal into controversy over how a proper mint julep should be concocted, Virginia Dabney, erudite editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, is now aiming his barbed arrows at the Deep South. His target is hominy grits.

"Grits," editorializes the Times-Dispatch, "aren't too bad, taken once in a while, and in small doses. We could even eat them at breakfast, in a pinch—say, about once a month. But the manner in which they are tossed at you every single morning of the year in the Cotton States, and in a special built-in compartment on your plate, when you never even thought of ordering them, is nothing less than an outrage."

If Mr. Dabney expects a rise out of us, he is in for disappointment. But, if we were replying, we would say that his sentiments could come only from someone unappreciative of the merits of collards and corn pone for dinner. And we might ask him how that Virginia delicacy, Smithfield ham, can be properly enjoyed without grits in which the red ham gravy can make a "pond-in-the-middle."

Or, we might console Mr. Dabney with the story of the bishop who once came to preach in our home village. The bishop visited in the home of a large family. At breakfast he turned from a bountiful laden plate to ask, "Where are the grits?" There were none, and the hostess apologized. Next morning the bishop was still there, and a steaming bowl appeared. "Here, Bishop," said the hostess, "are your grits." "Oh," said the bishop, "I never eat the stuff. I just didn't see how you raised a family of children without it."

THEY DON'T COME SOUTH
(The Lynchburg, Va., Advance)

Attorney General Brownell has issued a list of 62 groups which he intends to add to the Justice Department's list of 192 subversive organizations. After a careful scanning of the 62 groups we find not one that we ever heard of. This might mean that none of them exist in the South, or it might mean that some of the names are so similar, sound so innocuous or else patriotic, that they would be passed over without special notice.

For example one group is called the Committee for Freedom of the Press. The Justice Department says this group was formed by Communist Party members in New York in 1951 to raise funds and increase the circulation of The Daily Worker, the Communist newspaper. That shows how little a name means, and many other group names are of the same deceptive type.

If these numerous organizations solicit support from the public they must not operate in the South. Apparently they exist and operate only in the larger cities and apparently the FBI know enough about them for Mr. Brownell to add them to the list of subversive organizations. That list will be a long one now, 254 with 62 additions.

There is not much likelihood that loyal Americans are any longer lending their names to organizations without knowing exactly what they are, as so many did years ago. Even so it is worth continuing warnings against carelessly innocent action of this kind. Not only the joiner's reputation endangered but lending a reputable name to a subversive organization often enables it to bring in other suckers, for both names and funds.

France Still Without Government

PARIS (AP) — President Vincent Auriol sharply told France's political leaders Friday to put aside their jealousies and bickering and map out an agreed program which will bring an end to the country's 30-day Cabinet crisis.

The president acted after the National Assembly had thrown out his fourth candidate for the job—Radical Socialist Andre Marie—early Friday. Marie got only 272 votes, far short of the 314 needed for investiture.

The president called in 20 of the most influential deputies in the National Assembly and bluntly told them they must work out a solution among themselves.

Rosenbergs are Executed; Silent to End Pay Penalty for Giving Atom Data to Russia

By RELMAN MORIN —

SING SING PRISON, Ossining, N.Y., (AP) — Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, walked quietly to the electric chair last night and were executed for the crime of delivering to Soviet Russia the secrets of the atomic bomb.

Neither of the condemned spied talked, nor attempted to talk, as the last moments came.

Both entered the death chamber in Sing Sing Prison—only a few moments apart—with a firm step and a stony face. They were executed shortly before sunset, so that the grim task would be finished before the beginning of the Jewish Sabbath.

It was the day after their 14th wedding anniversary.

They were the first non-military convicts in the history of the United States to be executed for espionage.

At the hour of retribution, crowds gathered, demonstrating, in New York, London and Paris. Hysterical sympathizers, screaming and crying, milled around a speaker's stand in New York's Union Square.

Street fights broke out in Paris, and several policemen were reported wounded. In London, thousands roved the streets, waving copies of the Communist newspaper, Daily Worker, which carried a single word in giant type—"Murder."

In Dublin, two bottles of kerosene were thrown through the window of the U.S. information office. They did not explode.

But in Ossining, where the prison is located, the night was heavy details of police and state troopers guarding temporary barricades, met no demonstrators.

As the fixed hour approached, two telephone lines were opened between the office of Warden Wilfred L. Denno and Washington—presumably to be in touch with the White House and the office of Attorney-General Herbert Brownell.

The Rosenbergs spent most of their last day together. Warden Denno said they talked from about noon to 6:20 p.m. (EST) in the woman's wing of the prison. They were separated by a wire screen.

The party of official witnesses entered the death chamber a few moments before 7 p.m. (EST).

It is a square room. Behind the electric chair was a white, wheeled table. In front were four rows of benches, like pews in a church.

The room was heavy with silence from overhead, the lights beamed

Fire Works Explode at Ft. Worth Plant

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP) — Two heavy explosions shook a fireworks factory on the western outskirts of Fort Worth today.

Preliminary reports indicated that three and perhaps four persons were injured. Hospitals reported receiving two men and a girl for treatment.

A six-year-old boy was given emergency treatment at Harris hospital. Nurses said they understood he was in a stove near the Wilford fireworks plant at the time of the explosion.

Vic Moore who lives near the scene, said it looked as if about five homes were set on fire. The area is not densely populated.

Refugee Shot Mysteriously at Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., (UP) — A man who identified himself as a non-Communist political refugee and a Ukrainian count was shot but not seriously wounded under mysterious circumstances, police reported today.

The victim, with flesh wounds in the shoulder and side, was registered at a hospital as Leon Max, 26. He said his full name is Leonid I. Damlanov Maximitch.

Max told police he had carried a sack of garbage to the alley behind the rooming house where he lives when he was ambushed. Police were called to the rooming house shortly after midnight by the landlady. She said Max had staggered into the house and called for help.

Max, dark-haired and stocky with a thick accent, was quoted by a hospital nurse as saying, "I guess I'll be running the rest of my life."

Detective Al Leitch said Max described himself as a Ukrainian count, who fled Rumania in 1940 after participating in an anti-Communist underground which attempted to stage off the abdication of King Michael.

Max told officers he had lived here 14 months, was employed as an engineer at the McNamara Boiler and Tank Co., and has taken out his first citizenship papers.

"I don't know whether this case has any international or political complications or not," Leitch said. "We are going to do a lot of checking."

Box Kite Scares Airline Pilot

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff Airways pilot Lewis Wilson was coming in to land at the Dallas Airport at dusk yesterday when—about 500 feet—he saw something off his left wing.

It was a white box kite he said was big enough to foul an airplane engine.

After he landed Wilson combed the airfield area until he found a boy, 4, and a girl, 5, at the other end of 1,150 feet of string. He helped them bring down their kite.

ROKs Demand Rest of UN Prisoners

By WILLIAM C. BEHNARD

SEOUL, — South Korea's acting Prime Minister demanded that Gen. Mark Clark immediately turn over to his government for release 9,000 anti-Communist Korean prisoners still held in Allied stockades.

Rhee and his cabinet met this morning to study a stinging rebuke from President Eisenhower and government sources said the Cabinet might discuss Rhee's answer. Eisenhower accused Rhee of violating U.N. Command authority in ordering the prisoners freed.

Forty-five more anti-Communist Koreans fled from three U.N. prison camps Friday night and early Saturday. The U.N. Prisoner Command said nine were recaptured.

One South Korean was killed and one U.S. soldier was wounded at a camp near Pusan.

South Korea's Acting Prime Minister Yung Tai Pyun, in a letter dated Thursday, demanded that Clark turn over all anti-Red prisoners still in Allied hands.

"We must liberate them all preferably, in a manner least likely to cause trouble," he said.

And Pyun warned:

"I should like to call your attention to the mutual need of refraining from saying or doing anything that might likely provoke passions of the Korean masses, which once let loose may easily go out of control. If there is any talk to be done, it had better be managed quietly, we believe."

MORE GOONLY.

Things Too Ducky for Rhode Island Red

BABYLON, N.Y., (AP) — The Rhode Island Red hen can't understand it.

For 27 days she sat on a batch of nine eggs. When they hatched, they took to the water just like ducks.

That's because they are ducks, given to the hen to hatch after a Long Island builder found their eggs during excavation work.

The hen is happy taking care of the ducks until they go in for their daily swim. Then she walks along the water's edge and gives out with bewildered clucks.

Springdale Youth Dies in Wreck

GENTRY (AP) — A 15-year-old Springdale boy was killed when his automobile sped out of control and overturned on Highway 12 three miles west of Gentry last night.

State Trooper L. V. Jones said the young driver, Gene Breeden, died of a fractured skull before an ambulance arrived at the scene.

Breeden's companion, Billy Gene Garmon, 15 of Siloam Springs, suffered a broken shoulder and head injuries in the mishap. He remained unconscious at a Siloam Springs hospital this morning.

Trooper Jones said Breeden lost control of the car on a curve. The vehicle overturned three and a half times in a distance of 270 feet, the officer reported.

Peace Hopes Fade as Reds Angrily Demand Recapture of Prisoners

19 U. S. Planes Shot Down in Past Week

MUNSAN (AP) — The Reds today angrily told the Allies if the U. N. wants a truce it must control South Korea's rebellious government and recapture 20,000 anti-Red war prisoners freed by President Syngman Rhee.

Although the Communists protested violently at Rhee's arbitrary action, they did not rule out an armistice.

But their terms appeared near impossible—the Korean prisoners have melted into the countryside with Rhee's blessing and the split between South Korea and the U.N. Command apparently was deepening.

South Korea's acting prime minister, Y. T. Pyun, made public a letter to Gen. Mark Clark, a U. N. commander, demanding freedom for 9,000 anti-Reds left in Allied stockades. It was written Thursday, a few hours after the first big break.

Pyun said Rhee does not regard recent prisoner-exchange terms "equally binding on us" and warned Clark bluntly against "saying or doing anything that might likely provoke passions of the Korean masses, which once let loose may easily go out of control."

At almost the same time, Clark made public a letter written the same day blistering Rhee, and accusing him of breaking recent promises that South Korea would make no arbitrary moves without consulting Clark.

Rhee's action has cracked the unity of the Allies and the Reds made the most of it.

The Communists listed their demands in a letter handed to the Allied truce delegation in a 25-minute meeting at Panmunjom. Addressed directly to Clark, it ended: "We are awaiting the reply of your side."

The Allied delegates made no answer and the meeting recessed indefinitely at Communist request, subject to call by either side.

In Washington, U. S. officials had no comment, but said they expected a strong protest.

Vaccinations for Bang's to Be Completed Soon

Calhoun vaccination of replacement hoppers for Bang's Disease will be completed Friday, June 20, unless additional requests are received at once, states County Agent Oliver L. Adams.

Joe Hamilton, vaccinator, has been scheduled to visit all farms where service has been requested. Each farmer making request has been notified by letter.

As calhoun vaccination is the only known means for protecting future crops from Bang's Disease it is desired to vaccinate as many animals as possible. To receive the service on hoppers 4 to 8 months of age it is necessary to make request through the county agent not later than Wednesday, June 24.

Armistice Is Not Entirely Ruled Out

By MILO FARNETI

SEOUL (AP) — Allied air power suffered its heaviest losses of the Korean War the past week while helping to check the mightiest Red offensive in two years.

Nineteen planes—including Sabre jets—went down, behind Communist lines, the Air Force announced. Fourteen were lost to anti-aircraft guns and five to unexplained causes.

None was lost in dogfights, in which Sabre jets shot down 10 Red MIG jets.

Day and night, U. N. warplanes in record waves dumped bombs and jettisoned gasoline on Communist troops to play a major role in stemming the greatest Red drive since 1951—a drive which denied South Korean lines up to two miles.

The worst previous Allied plane loss was 10 in the week of Feb. 6-11, 1952.

Nine Sabre jets were shot down by Red guns, and three more of the swept-wing jets failed to return from enemy territory for unexplained causes, probably engine failure. Previous high Sabre toll for a week was four for the period ending April 10.

One Mustang and three Thunderjet fighter-bombers and one twin-jet Australian Meteor fighter-bomber also were lost to ground fire. The loss of a Star night fighter and one Thunderjet also was unexplained.

The week also saw destructive Communist air raids on the South, resulting in Friday's announcement that U. S. Marine Skyraider attack bombers were assigned to patrol the capital.

Saturday, the Communist push had slackened to platoon and company-sized assaults while the Reds apparently probed for weak spots in Southern Korean lines on the East-Coast front.

In the center of the front, the dug-in South Korean 8th Division reported an intense shelling from Red big guns Friday.

To the west, Allied flare planes lit up three Red platoon and company assaults southeast of Communist-held Finger Ridge and the KOKs hurled them back.

Germans Set Fire to Soviet Held Factories

BERLIN, (UP) German anti-Communists have set fire to Soviet Germany's biggest industrial plant, and at least one other important factory in flames, it was reported today.

At the same time, the U.S. commandant in Berlin said the Russians have created a potentially explosive situation in Communist Berlin by bringing in two mechanized divisions, 25,000 troops to "lump down" the people.

Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman said U.S. troops in Berlin are "outnumbered two to one" by the Russians, without counting the thousands of Communist police also massed in the Soviet sector.

West Berlin newspapers reported four more deaths in this week's "revolt" against Communist rule in Germany two Germans slain by Russian firing squad and two Communist police lynched by rioters.

The Western paper Telegraph said fires are raging in the nationalized Iena synthetic gasoline plant, which employs more than 20,000 workers, and in the Schkopau Synthetic Rubber Factory.

Telegraph said also that two Germans in Magdeburg were shot down by Russian firing squad on forcing the martial law clamped on much of Soviet Germany following the Wednesday riots. A similar execution here was announced by the Communist radio two days ago.

Husband Held in Wife's Death

OMAHA, Neb. (UP) — Douglas County authorities held a six-foot-three inch 210-pound man for questioning today after his wife was found fatally beaten in a "luxurious" house trailer.

Deputy Sheriff Victor Novotny said Mrs. Joe Kulkendall, 34, of Tucson, Ariz., was unconscious when police arrived at the trailer late yesterday. She died shortly after in Douglas County Hospital.

Deputies had been called by a neighbor, who said two small boys reported hearing a violent argument in the trailer.

Novotny said police had not determined how long the couple had lived in Omaha or what they were doing in the city. He said the trailer was well-furnished and "luxurious."

India Willing to Go Ahead in Role

NEW DELHI, India (UP) — India still is willing to act as a "neutral" caretaker of war prisoners in Korea despite recent "extraordinary developments" there, it was announced today.

An official announcement said the government "greatly regretted South Korea's arbitrary action in releasing thousands of anti-Communist prisoners, but hoped that the impending truce will still be signed."

"There is no change in the attitude of the government of India," the announcement said. "They (the government) are prepared to carry out their undertakings."

India had agreed earlier to act as a member of the "neutral" commission which was to have cared for anti-Communist prisoners while their future was being decided.

GOPs Alarmed About Wheat Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alben Barkley (D-Mt.) conceded today some of his Western Republican congressional colleagues are "worried" about wheat planting quotas and lower price supports in 1954.

Next year is an election year and the narrow GOP margins in the House and Senate are subject to a test at the polls.

Alben, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee made the comment in an interview as he called for public hearings next Thursday on proposed revisions of the present wheat marketing quota law.

Together with Sens. Young (R-ND) and Schoepel (R-Kas.) who represent important wheat growing states, Alben is co-author of a bill to eliminate many small wheat farms from an expected national wide poll on reducing acreage.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has until July 1 to announce whether growers referendum will be held on imposition of acreage quotas next year. Aides have said that with existing surpluses, built up from huge crops in recent years, he has no alternative.

Such a referendum must be approved by two-thirds of the growers participating. If they turn down acreage allotments, government price support levels will drop from 90 to 80 per cent of parity, the price declared by law to be fair to farmers in terms of what things they must buy. That would mean a support price of around $1.20 a bushel.

The bill by Alben and his colleagues would assure a wheat allotment of at least 10 million acres in 1954. This is far below the 17 or 18 million acres planted this year but not yet harvested. The estimated 1954 harvest would require more than 18 million acres.

Pastures Need Rain All Over Arkansas

By HAROLD HART

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Rice on land which knew only cotton year after year. That is the familiar picture along the flatlands of East Arkansas these days.

Pumps gushing water into the snake-like rice fields. Cotton still is there, but rice is making inroads.

Rice growing in that longline cotton producing section of Arkansas may be just an experimental process, but agriculturists have high hopes for it.

They say the rice appears less subject to insect damage than other crops. It is certain knowledge how cotton has been preyed upon by pests.

Also, it is possible to grow rice on new land, or land where other crops have been grown with little or no fertilization for several years. Missouri's best rice—the southernmost also is undergoing this agricultural metamorphosis.

Through the leadship of Joe Corns, Ark., brother, Everett C. and Roy Thomas planted 500 acres of rice in Butler County, Mo., this spring.

Reports are starting to come in of crops being damaged through lack of rain. Washington County agent Carl Rose says pastures particularly are being hurt in that area. He added that farmers can't plant sudan grass for pasture had change of both the program and demonstration, the subject for study being good reading and how to stimulate a good reading. The program was in the form of a general discussion. It was learned that the women were carrying on programs in various organizations in the community that did stimulate good reading.

Mrs. Delaney was winner in recreation period, and pictures were made for the scrap book. Refreshments were served to members and Mrs. Blackwood of Mineral Springs a visitor. The July meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Delaney with Mrs. Robert Caldwell as co-hostess.

AND THAT'S REAL—Shirley Buchanan, queen of the 5th Annual Los Angeles Home Show, takes hold of the dress material on one of the 20-foot-high displays to show that it's the real McCoy. The gigantic cut-out girl is one of several on display in the Mardi Gras area of the show.

and sorghum grass for silage. The counties of Scott, Sebastian, Montgomery, Lafayette, Randolph, Polk, Crawford, Marion, Benton, Conway, Union, White, St. Francis and Hempstead are others reporting the need of immediate rain to preserve pastures.

Speaking of cover crops, Arkansas farm leaders are reported to be very much concerned over their inability to convince farmers of the value in winter cover crops to build and conserve the soil.

D. A. Hinkle of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture says only 24 per cent of the row crops in the state are planted in winter cover crops such as the highly desirable legumes.

Charles C. Willey of the Production Marketing Administration says that many farmers in the delta area feel that the winter crop program interferes with the production of cotton, their money crop. The farm leaders figure they will have to re-examine the winter cover crop program to see what can be done about the situation.

Trumans to Visit Washington

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., (AP)—Former President and Mrs. Truman are to leave today on an automobile trip to Washington for their first visit there since leaving the White House in January.

Truman declined last night to discuss the trip. However, his friends in Washington said he was expected there Monday night for a five-day stay.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler Copyright, 1953 By King Features Syndicate

Felix Frankfurter was examined by a subcommittee of the Senate committee on the judiciary on Jan. 12, 1953. He was a slippery witness. Senator Pat McCarran, a Democrat but an anti-Communist even then, asked him whether he agreed with the "doctrine" of his friend, Harold Laski, the English Communist, as expressed in a book of his entitled "Communism."

"Senator McCarran," said Frankfurter, "how can I answer without making a speech about my views on government and the relations of the various branches of the government to one another?" He could have made the speech. Nobody was interrupting him. But he didn't.

They sparred along and no clear answer came from Frankfurter. Senator William H. King, another Democrat, took over the task of trying to get a straightforward declaration.

King asked, "Do you believe in what might be called the ideology of Marx and Trotsky?"

Again Frankfurter gave an imitation of bushel of eels on a barrel of grease.

"It would be terribly easy," he said, "for me to answer that question."

"I withhold any further discussion, not because there is any secret about my views or feelings but because I am in a position in which I cannot help it. You will have to decide, in the light of my whole life, what devotion I have given to the American system of government."

That is precisely what the senators were trying to do. "In the light" of his "whole life," the senators had learned that Theodore Roosevelt had accused Frankfurter of "taking an attitude fundamentally that of Trotsky and other Bolshevik leaders in Russia." T. R. was referring to Frankfurter's "investigation and report" on the trial of Tom Mooney for the murder of many citizens by a planted bomb in San Francisco and on the isle deportation of a gang of IWW terrorists. The agitation to discredit the Mooney trial and get him excused from the death penalty was directed from Petrograd, the revolutionary capital of Russia.

T. R. said Frankfurter's report on the Bisbee action was "as thoroughly misleading a document as could be written. No official writing on behalf of the President is to be excused for failure to know and set forth that the IWW is a criminal organization. No human being in his senses doubts that the men deported from Bisbee were intent on destruction and murder."

In this testimony, Frankfurter gave his Communist bosom friend, Laski, a fine build-up and said, ing to the corridor. He left it open an inch or two and stood there, listening.

About three minutes later, Rabbi Koslow's voice again came from beyond the door. The guard pulled it open.

The rabbi entered, holding the prayer book almost on a level with his eyes. He read both the 15th and 16th Psalms, "Who shall sojour in Thy tabernacle."

Ethel Rosenberg, 37, walked behind him.

She wore a shapeless green dress with a small white pattern. It had no belt. The sleeves were short and the neckline was high and round. She also wore slipper-type shoes.

Unlike her husband, she looked around the room. Her eyes flickered from face to face, across the row of witnesses and down the line of guards.

She had stopped in front of the electric chair, and she started to turn toward it. Suddenly, she stopped.

Two women had followed her into the chamber. One was Mrs. Helen Evans, prison matron, and the other Mrs. Lucy Many, former matron and now a telephone operator.

Ethel Rosenberg whirled back from the chair and extended her arm toward Mrs. Evans. Her hand was outstretched.

Mrs. Evans took it between both of hers. Rosenberg pulled the short, white-haired matron toward her, and the two women kissed.

Each murmured, but the words were unintelligible to the witnesses. Later, Mrs. Evans said she only recalled saying "Goodbye."

Some natives of the Philippines fish in cornfields. A dozen clippings, which travel on dry land, are obtained from a cornfield patch of mud.

When 15 Meets 15

Dear Miss Dix: I am very much interested in a boy of 15 who is friendly to me in school. However, when I meet him outside, all he'll say is "Hi!" I know he doesn't have another girl, and I'd like to encourage him.

Answer: Fifteen-year-old boys are difficult to interest sometimes. They don't like to show too much fondness for any particular girl because they know it will lead to kidding from the older boys. If you like the lad, bide your time until he's a bit older, and has acquired a little more social consciousness.

Dear Miss Dix: Three years ago, when I was 15, my parents brought me to this country. As is the custom in our native land, they had a husband selected for me, but since he was about 40, I didn't care for him. Actually, I am interested in a boy of my own nationality, who is closer to my age. Should I tell my parents that I intend to pick my own husband?

Answer: Since your family has become part of our own great land, they must learn to adopt its customs, which include the privilege of young people to choose their own mates.

quite gratuitously that Laski came over here in World War I to teach at McGill in Montreal and Harvard, being "disqualified for service in the war for physical reasons."

These physical handicaps did not prevent Laski from playing a game of tennis so strenuous and excellent (while other Britons much older and less fit were taking it in France) that his tennis game has had prominent mention in his biography. Laski was, in fact, a cunning draft-dodger devoted not to the preservation of the country whose people had thrown about him the protection of their Magna Charta, their courts and their unwritten constitution, but rather to the destruction of the nation. He carried on similarly here and Felix Frankfurter was one of his warmest personal friends. But, as to Frankfurter's attitude toward Laski's doctrine of communism, we are still left guessing.

The Frankfurter report to Woodrow Wilson on the Mooney case was signed also by Max Lowenthal as assistant secretary. This is the man who wrote the book attacking the FBI two years ago and who then bobbed up mysteriously in the friendly biography of Harry S. Truman by Jonathan Daniels, one of Truman's selfless secretaries. Daniels depicted Lowenthal as one who threw a halter on Truman and schooled him in Lowenthal's principles of government for the United States. Daniels went much further. He wrote that Lowenthal, as counsel for a Senate committee of which Truman was a greenhorn member, decided long before any such bug ever bit Truman himself, to school Truman for vice president. He also introduced him to Louis D. Brandeis, then retired from the Supreme bench; for visits in which Brandeis thoughts made a profound impression on the rapscallion rube from the political slums of Kansas City.

Later, Lowenthal was called before the House committee on Un-American activities to give information about his own doings, particularly as an emissary of certain groups in Germany when the terrible precedents of revenge were being established in the "war guilt" trials. Lowenthal brought along Burt Wheeler, of Montana, formerly a sen a o t, although Wheeler had been liquidated on charges of anti-Semitism. Wheeler tied up the committee so cleverly that Lowenthal didn't have to answer a single question of importance. He never did name the groups which sent him to Germany nor explain his relations with a character named Wahl whose activities still baffled not only that committee but other such bodies.

In his testimony that day in 1939, Frankfurter himself made the remarkable admission that "except in one instance involving a charge against a nominee the entire history of this committee and of the Supreme court does not disclose that a nominee to the Supreme court has appeared and testified." And his mouthpiece all through the hearings was Dean Acheson, who remained his close confidant throughout Acheson's career in the State Department.

The published record contains the written statement of the late General Hugh Johnson that Frankfurter was "the most influential individual in the United States," heading "the nucleus of a vast collectivism in which business or any private enterprise are just elements to be absorbed."

Another observation which went into his record was that of George N. Peek, former administrator of the unconstitutional AAA, who wrote: "In the legal division plans were formed which turned the AAA from a device to aid the farmers into a device to introduce the collectivist system of agriculture."

"This," Peek wrote, "was due to Jerome Frank, who had come to Washington, so he told me, at the request of Felix Frankfurter."

There is so much information proving that Frankfurter is a crafty political manipulator of a personal machine, including even Henry L. Stimson, whom he selected for secretary of war, that the appropriation investigating committees are wasting time on petty suspects and apostates. Frankfurter's office is not a five-minute walk away.

Dear Miss Dix: The boy I like is 22, five years older than I. He has dated me a couple of times, but I think the reason he doesn't take me out more often is that he has home responsibilities. Consequently little money to spend. Now can I show him that what he spends on me isn't important; it's being with him that matters.

D. L.
Answer: It's up to you to suggest inexpensive pleasures. You must have him to your house occasionally, making the evening entertaining with records, new dance steps, perhaps a showing of home movies, and ending up with simple refreshments. Consult your local paper for news of happenings around town that will provide low-cost amusement. Don't let the boy get into the habit of never spending money on you, though. But don't make your concern with his financial situation too obvious. He probably has pride, too.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been going with a very nice man for 16 months. I'm 24 and he's 30. Though he seems to like me, he has mentioned, casually, he never intends to marry. Do you think he'll change his mind?

HELENE F.
Answer: Not if you continue your present rate of dating. He craves your companionship and hospitality but is quite willing to let things remain there. If you try going out with other men for a while, he may realize how much your loss would mean to him, and perhaps offer the security of a wedding band.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 34 years old and have been divorced for a year. I have been going out with a divorced woman slightly younger. We both claim to be just good friends. She claims she doesn't want to go out with men, yet she plans ways ahead for things we are to do together. She has met my family, and is quite chummy with my mother. Yet, in spite of all her apparent interest in me, she says we are seeing too much of each other. I have a small son whose custody I shall soon have since my ex-wife doesn't want him. The girl is a good friend of the boy and thinks it splendid that I am going to have him. I would like to marry her, yet wonder if she would accept me.

T. L.
Answer: For goodness sake, stop worrying. All the young lady is waiting for is a proposal. Her actions belie her words to such an extent that they have no other interpretation than extreme interest in you and your welfare.
